

Mark Schafer
Product Designer
hey@asimpleframe.com

Vitsø team,

Covering Letter
2022 November 15

I'm reaching out to see if there is space for me to contribute at Vitsø.
While I don't see an open role that fits, Vitsø's values and ethos resonate deeply. I've thought about writing this for years, but now the time is right. I'm at a transition point professionally, and I'm interested in relocating to the UK. As stated on your careers page: You never know...

About me

I got my start in graphic design and now work in digital product design. Recently, I led design for Palantir Foundry, led design for Scroll (a startup), and owned the design for a new surface on Twitter. I consider myself a generalist, eager to learn new things. I'm at my best solving complex problems in the digital space but am also adept at designing across mediums.

For my next chapter, I want to build digital tools that help people and connect to the physical world. Vitsø's in-house software fits that bill. What else at Vitsø might be a good fit for my skills?

Why Vitsø

When I tell people about Vistoe, I get very excited. I first talk about the design itself and the difference it has made in my life. But the intangibles excite me more: why it doesn't go on sale, the excellent customer service, and why components are backward compatible. I'm energized because the values Vitsø puts into practice resonate so deeply.

For example, I believe the purpose of business is to serve people; Vitsø sees people as individuals, not human resources. I believe that constraints breed creativity; Vitsø's ethos is less, but better. I believe in pursuing perfection in hopes of attaining excellence; Vitsø expects people to "demand high standards and be at ease with demanding people." I could be a great fit for Vitsø; Vitsø could be a great fit for me.

Making a difference

The best products not only improve your life; they improve how you live your life. The best work is similar. It not only allows you to contribute your skills to make a difference; it grows and shapes you, while you grow and shape the work. Could Vitsø be a place for my best work? I'd love to discuss and find out.

Cheers,

Mark